SPACE CENTRE, Houston — Gemini 7 astronaut Frank Borman lost an argument with his own bulky space suit after four days of "longjohn" flying.

Orders from the ground told him to take off his bulky space suit after four days of "longjohn" flying. What amounted to history's first outerspace argument was settled the way Gemini 6 astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford did.

Gemini 7 soared on toward the midpoint of its 14-day flight.

It entered its 98th orbit at 10:31 p.m. EST.

Flight control director Christopher Kraft at the manned flight. He wanted to wait.

spacecraft centre in Houston said he was "very pleased" with the mock flight by Gemini 6 astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford.

A short while later Borman and Lovell, who hope to have the pleasure of Schirra and Stafford's company Sunday, settled down for another night's sleep in space.

Borman did not want to go the time-consuming trouble of stripping off the 16-pound pressurized space suit as part of a test to determine the best way for astronauts to be dressed for Berry, the flight surgeon, called "nasal stuffiness." It appeared partly caused by the two men breathing pure oxygen.

Berry asked Lovell to take an antihistamine tablet to try to clear it up, but Gemini 7's pilot declined on the grounds he didn't need it and the condition wasn't too much of a bother.

Both 7 crewmen, and particularly Lovell, were showing signs of what Dr. Charles

Rare Cranes
On Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Forty-four rare whooping cranes have checked in for the winter at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, the Texas parks and wildlife department reported Friday. The figure is two more than the number which left last spring for Canadian mating grounds. Gordon Follenzogen, assistant refuge manager, said this year's whooping colony includes eight young born this year and at least some of the 10 young born in 1964.

Financial Talks

—asked that mental and tuberculosis care be included in the federal-provincial hospital insurance program.

Mr. Roblin also asked that a conference be held as soon as possible to discuss more federal aid for higher education. No decision was reached on this.

IN JEOPARDY

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec again made his government's position clear on its attitude toward shared cost programs.

"We believe that this type of program jeopardizes the fiscal autonomy of the provinces."

TAX STUDY

"However, if other provinces, for various reasons, wish to accept new shared cost programs or substantial increases to those already in existence, the government of Quebec does not intend to oppose their wish . . ."

For a year, a subcommittee, consisting of officials, has been at work on the tax study. The main committee hopes to complete its work sometime next year, setting the stage for federal-provincial bargaining at the top level.

By then the federal government will have the report of the Carter royal commission on taxation which has studied the entire federal tax structure.

Mr. Sharp said he understood there would be "radical" recommendations and these would receive urgent consideration.

It was the first time that the 11 governments had taken a collective look at their future financial positions.

Unbalance in Older People
Often Fault of Inner Ear

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD
Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss unbalance in older people. This is entirely different from dizziness.

What does the inner ear have to do with it? — MRS. W. A. L.

Yours is a good question, obseverant and important.

Why do older people stumble and sometimes fall?

Are there reasons other than dizziness, or vertigo? Indeed there are. Tomorrow I'll answer your specific questions, because today we need to lay some ground-work first.

Vertigo, or dizzy spells, can be a hazard, of course. The inner ear is responsible for much of this trouble.

The inner ear is important in keeping our balance, but isn't the whole story. The inner ear has some tiny, semi-circular canals containing liquid. As we move this way and that, we are confused with "feeling dizzy."

liquid flows to different parts of the canals. Nerves attached to canals react to this, giving us a sense of knowing, even in the dark, whether we are tipping this way or that.

We "get dizzy" when we spin around rapidly because centrifugal force makes the fluid try to whirl outward, rather than flow in accordance with merely tilting the head.

Infection of the inner ear can change the normal, delicate pressures, and that can cause dizziness.

Yet again, hardening of the arteries or vagaries of blood pressure can disturb the sense of balance by interfering with circulation.

Finally, a sudden lowering of blood pressure (as when one has been sitting down and stands up suddenly) can cause a very brief "blackout," is a reasonable dose. If this doesn't help, you can try other methods besides.

although it is not really quite the same thing.

So much for the inner ear. At least, that is a general outline which will serve as adequate foundation for what we will discuss tomorrow—lack of balance which is NOT due to true dizziness.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 70 and have pains in my legs and my toes turn up. Some people call them a "charley horse." I have been told that taking five grains of quinine will help. Is this harmful? — MRS. R. F.

The original meaning of "charley horse" is a muscle cramp caused by a strain. The type of cramp you describe is not from strain, but from other causes—and there are several.

A few grains of quinine at night often helps, and the suggested amount, five, is a reasonable dose. If this doesn't help, you can try other methods besides.

Wilson Accuses Smith Of Lies and Fraud

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson accused Ian Smith Friday of seizing power in Rhodesia by lies and fraud. He demanded Smith surrender that power before any peace talks begin.

Wilson told the House of Commons the British government refuses directly or indirectly to deal with the Rhodesian prime minister's regime except on "the mechanics" of restoring constitutional rule.

CAN'T BE TRUSTED

"We cannot negotiate with these men," Wilson declared gravely. "Nor can they be trusted, after the return of constitutional rule, with the task of leading Rhodesia in paths of freedom and racial harmony." He said Britain is considering a state of emergency on the eve of UDI (unilateral declaration of independence) with a categorical assurance to the governor that this was not a preparation for UDI," Wilson said.

ILLEGAL MOVE

"Immediately after getting these powers he claimed that they were legal for the operation of UDI," Wilson said.

Despite the rigid attitude of his speech, Wilson left open the possibility of talks with Smith—but only after Smith surrenders to British authority.

Wilson claimed Smith used trickery and deception in proclaiming the independence last month of the central African country.

"Mr. Smith cannot dictate terms to us," said Wilson. "But he could end the present hardships (of the Rhodesian people) by an approach to the governor.

"It is not for the regime to discuss the basis on which they can drop their illegal act—they must drop this illegal act first," he said in answering Smith's offer to call off UDI if Rhodesia is granted independence by Britain.

Wilson said the Smith regime has "perverted, distorted and misused" the constitution and turned Rhodesia into a police state.

Charles Thibault and Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Merritt. Mr. Greene appointed six men to serve as temporary business agents of the 5,000-member local, effectively removing Mr. Thibault and Mr. Merritt from the payroll.

Mr. Thibault said the trusteeship was set up after he had placed 15 charges under the union construction against Mr. McDougall and 45 against Local Vice-President Gordon Newman involving alleged improper use of union funds.

Within minutes of his arrival in Toronto Friday afternoon, he:

- Suspended the seven-man local executive board.
- Cancelled a membership meeting scheduled for Sunday.
- Appointed controversial local president Ken McDougall temporary business manager of the local.
- Fired the leaders of a dissident group, Business Agent

Seaway Traffic Takes Jump

OTTAWA (CP)—Cargo traffic through the St. Lawrence Seaway this year, figures issued by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority show, reached 42,304,927 tons by the end of November. At the same time a year ago, cargo movement was slightly under 39,000,000 tons. The new figure is almost nine per cent higher.

No repair job ever looks too big to Finning's Norm Ruffle

The 25 tons of power in our picture is a Caterpillar D6 track-type tractor. It's in for a complete overhaul... a job that calls for even the big components to be handled with a watchmaker's precision. To do it right you really need two things. A service supervisor like Norm Ruffle, and an organization like Finning's. Norm's confidence comes partly from twenty-five years of experience and partly from knowing his team of specialists and their equipment are simply the best.

So under Norm's watchful eye, the giant Cat D8 tractor will be stripped. Then the overhaul will get under way with each part... engine, transmission, fuel injection, control unit, turbocharger, electrical system, tracks and rollers... being sent to its own expert.

But just as important is this question. What kind of pride do these Finning men take in their work?

Well, you could talk to Norm Ruffle for five minutes. Or put the reassembled machine through its paces.

For it's true... Finning is the company big enough to handle the smallest job efficiently... personally... willingly.

Position of Trust

EVEN THE MOST biased partisan Liberal supporter cannot now fail to agree that Prime Minister Pearson must introduce some drastic changes in the Quebec representation in his national cabinet if he is to retain either the confidence of his own party or elicit the support of opposition parties to keep him in power.

Mr. Pearson, though leader of a minority government, has been given a remarkable and unprecedented opportunity by his political rivals to provide a stable administration for Canada for the next few years inasmuch as each of them has declared that it is not its desire to precipitate another election but rather to attend to the nation's business.

With such assurances Mr. Pearson should now be able to conduct himself as a responsible and authoritative prime minister.

However, if he fails to accept this challenge by refusing to get rid of some of his weak Quebec lieutenants such as Guy Favreau, Maurice Lamontagne, René Tremblay and Maurice Sauve he will have turned his back not only on his own party but on the people of Canada—including Quebec.

To continue to avoid taking this long overdue action for the good of the nation and all its parts would be nothing less than a complete rejection of the position of trust he now holds.

A Chance for Peace

CERTAINLY ONE OF THE most significant developments on the diplomatic front since the United States first sent troops into Viet Nam is the appreciation of the situation written by Mr. Carl T. Rowan, a former director of the U.S. Information Agency.

"A U.S. pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam has become the key to any possible peaceful settlement of the ugly, escalating war that grips all Southeast Asia," he says.

He bases his contention that Washington will accede to pressures for such a decision on the growing evidence that the American people believe the administration has not pursued zealously enough the opportunities for peace that have appeared. The late Mr. Adlai Stevenson's view that the U.S. had once rejected peace overtures from Hanoi, a belief recently given wide publicity in the United States, has shaken the public confidence, it appears.

Genuine seekers after a negotiated peace should bear in mind that characteristic of the people of the East described inadequately as "face," a combination of qualities of mind not properly understood in the West because the Oriental has not been supposed to possess them. They include a fierce pride, a stiff dignity and high courage. They derive, at least in part, from the Oriental's loyalty to his own philosophies, religions, arts and cultures, old when the West was young. This attitude understandably creates a belief in his civilization's superiority in spite of the inferior position he has been forced at times to accept by the aggressive Westerner.

In this light, then, the Washington policy of attempting to bomb North Viet Nam into submission is bound to fail. This use of force will only stiffen resistance to negotiation, and the wider its employment the farther from settlement the adversary will be driven.

The Russians appreciate this. And, from their wide experience in the Far East, the British understand it. There are signs that President Johnson may be listening to this sort of reasoning. While still "determined to do all that is necessary" to turn back the Communist threat in Viet Nam he has said he is "equally determined that every prospect for peace be exhausted."

Cessation of bombing will provide one of those prospects, Mr. Rowan believes. It would allow Hanoi to "have face." With a reduction of pressure they might be prevailed upon to talk rather than fight.

"The cause of peace is so small," says Mr. Rowan, "and the stakes in further escalation so great that a temporary cessation of bombing in the course of prudence."

It is also the humane and generous course, and one which would win President Johnson honor.

Such a gesture may fail, it is true, but at least in such an unfortunate event Washington and its allies can pursue the alternative with better conscience.

The Gravy Train

SOME OF THE NINE African member nations of the Commonwealth who last week lent such vociferous support to the Organization of African Unity's threat to sever diplomatic relations with Britain if she did not take military action against Rhodesia before December 15 are now having second thoughts about the matter.

And well they might, for they and they alone would be the losers by such a move.

It would be charitable to believe that any such reversal of attitude on the part of the nine African nations involved would be brought about through a traditional affection for the Crown, a resurgence of past loyalties, a deeper understanding of the principles binding the Commonwealth or respect for the country which guided each of them to independence.

However, if any of these nine African states now change their minds and resolve to retain their links with Britain and the Commonwealth it will not be because of any of these high reasons but simply because by staying where they are they have a good thing going for themselves.

By maintaining their connection with Britain and the Commonwealth the nine not only qualify for preferential treatment in trade but remain on the receiving end of extremely generous aid—in grants, loans and technical assistance—from Britain.

This latter bonus (at the British taxpayer's expense) is so attractive that it would be hard for any African nation to forego it—even for the loftiest ideals.

Since achieving independence the nine have received well over $300,000,000 worth of financial aid from the United Kingdom. This aid has been disbursed as follows: Malawi, $22,464,000; Tanzania, $78,777,000; Kenya, $63,953,000; Uganda, $38,622,000; Zambia, $10,476,000; Nigeria, $72,036,000; Ghana, $14,109,000; Sierra Leone, $22,690,000 and Gambia, $300,000.

In the face of such goodies, it is understandable why even that most ardent of African nationalists, Premier Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, is loathe to be the first to cry: "Stop the gravy train, I want to get off!"

"I cracked the safe... put the loot in my car... was getting clean away when this cop nicks me for having a winkle-doll in my rear window!"

Death Penalty Decision

'As Free as the Vote on the Flag'

By RON COLLISTER from Toronto

FOR the Liberal MPs called upon to vote on the issue in the next session, the message is already clear: their leaders oppose the death penalty.

If the vote keeps the death penalty, there is really no basis for the government's new policy of commuting all death penalty commutes to life imprisonment, no matter how heinous the crime.

Liberal MPs, in voting, will have to consider the unbroken record of commutations, and the impact on the party of such a vote for the anti-abolitionists.

"It will be as free as the vote in the ring debate," an eminent lawyer said.

In this case, the government's fall if capital punishment were retained, but it would have acted contrary to the wishes of Parliament.

According to reliable sources here, there would have been no commutation for Beale bandit Matthew Kerr Smith; bomber killer Joseph Lévesque; sex slayer Leopold Dion; and Santa Claus killer Georges Marcotte under the rules of commutation followed by Justice ministers before the present government took office.

The previous Tory government generally took the view that there could be no reprieve for a man who killed while carrying out another indictable offence.

The present government's deviation from these rules became clear when Marcotte, dressed as Santa Claus, killed two men during a bank holdup in Montreal and was saved from the gallows.

Since then, communions have been predictable. There have been 19 in three years.

The government is responding to public concern about the death penalty, but it is also creating public concern in another way.

What right does the government have to abolish the death penalty, in effect before Parliament has spoken?

Why should the public be asked to bear the heavy cost of judicial exercises involved in trying to save a condemned man from the gallows, when the government, eventually, will save him anyway?

Is commutation being used as a safe way out of difficult situations where, on technical grounds, evidence of insanity cannot be admitted in appeal courts, evidence that conceivably could save the condemned killer?

This third question may reasonably be asked in the case of the Beale bandit, Matthew Kerr Smith.

Two affidavits by eminent psychiatrists describe Smith as certifiably insane under the Ontario Mental Hospitals Act.

These psychiatrists examined Smith at the request of the department of justice, in the public outcry over Smith's state of mind. His lawyers tried to have the report examined by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The highest court, which examines matters of law, refused to allow the affidavits to be admitted and confirmed the action of the Ontario Appeal Court in dismissing the appeal.

So the questions that arise are these:

Would Smith have been hanged if the government's policy had not just happened to change in time to save him?

Would an insane man have been hanged?

In the first affidavit, Dr. W. Arthur Blair, chief psychiatrist at Ottawa Civic Hospital, said of Smith:

"This 23-year-old man of average intelligence is a danger to society with his grandiose ideas of overthrowing the government and robbing banks.

"This man has a mental illness or disease of the mind known as paranoid schizophrenia.

"At present, this man is a danger not only to himself but to society and is certifiable under the Ontario Mental Hospitals Act."

Dr. Cormack found that Smith was a psychopath and had been schizophrenic for a long time. "He acts not as a rational human being, but as a marginal psychopath."

Beale bandit Smith's appeal to the Supreme Court was rejected Nov. 17.

His lawyers argued that the verdict of the jury with regard to the insanity issue was "perverse, unreasonable and cannot be supported by the evidence."

Odd Border Incident

By ROLAND MINTFORD from Kirkenes, Norway

NEAR the port of Kirkenes in northeast Norway is the Russian border, one of the few places in the Western world where one can look directly on to the territory of the Soviet Union. Visitors are constantly warned by the Norwegian authorities against straying too close to Russian soil, and most take heed.

A few months ago one of them blundered into the line. He was an American, Newcomb Mott, aged 27, and at Murmansk he had just been sentenced to 18 months hard labor.

The case has aroused great feeling in Norway, and many newspapers have published angry editorials on the subject. Mr. Mott was patently an innocent tourist, and what has particularly infuriated the Norwegians is that his arrest took place at an enclave opened at the request of the Russians in the otherwise sealed border.

The government is responding to public concern about the death penalty, but it is also creating public concern in another way.

What right does the government have to abolish the death penalty, in effect before Parliament has spoken?

Why should the public be asked to bear the heavy cost of judicial exercises involved in trying to save a condemned man from the gallows, when the government, eventually, will save him anyway?

Would Smith have been hanged if the government's policy had not just happened to change in time to save him?

Would an insane man have been hanged?

In the first affidavit, Dr. W. Arthur Blair, chief psychiatrist at Ottawa Civic Hospital, said of Smith:

"This 23-year-old man of average intelligence is a danger to society with his grandiose ideas of overthrowing the government and robbing banks.

"This man has a mental illness or disease of the mind known as paranoid schizophrenia.

Entry to Boris Gleb was confined to Scandinavians who, published Wilson's sharp le-

An interesting facet of the case is that Mr. Mott was not sent to Moscow for trial but kept in Murmansk. Rarely is a foreigner tried in a provincial Soviet city, and it may be that the authorities wanted to bring some importance to the dreary Arctic port and give the surroundings some political importance.

The affair certainly becomes inexplicable in the context of recent Russian manoeuvres in the north. President Kekkonen of Finland proposed in a speech that Finland and Norway (members of NATO) should sign a pact guaranteeing peace along the Soviet border in the event of conflict. The president was clearly acting as he periodically does for the Russians, and his proposal showed sharpening anxiety for the security of their northern border.

The point at which Newcomb Mott strayed over was ill-marked, and it appears that he first realized his mistake when he saw a Russian border guard. After the usual Russian procedure of being held incommunicado, he was finally brought to a show trial at Murmansk. In similar circumstances, Norwegians are generally returned over the border after a month or two, but rarely more than six, and then without any trial.

Record Rush Expected

Post Office Awaits Avalanche of Mail

Victoria Postmaster Allan Davies and his staff are poised to deal with another record Christmas mail avalanche.

By the time the flow reaches its expected peak at the end of next week, some 500 temporary workers, many of them students will have joined the permanent post office complement of 313 to speed things on.

"We are expecting a four or five per cent increase in Christmas mail — as in former years," said supervisor Leon Hall.

At the height of the rush it represents 1,000,000 letters alone passing through the post office in one day.

A sigh of relief was breathed when the staff this week safely managed to get out of the way more than 800,000 motor licence application forms sent out by the provincial government.

Deadlines Near

This leaves the decks cleared for the two remaining Christmas mailing deadlines — Dec. 13 for out-of-town points and Dec. 17 for local addresses.

Thousands of cards will not be addressed correctly, if form runs true.

Mr. Hall is hoping mailers of Christmas cards and parcels will not only address them correctly but will remember to use return addresses.

Watch Parcels

He suggests that in the case of parcels, which are apt to lose their wrappers, the sender should slip inside a note explaining where it is going and where it came from to assist rewrapping.

A further tip: Use five cent stamps with Christmas cards and other personal gifts.

And the postage on a greeting card always is still only three cents but that only entitles you to a five-word message.

Booming Business Expanding

B.C. Holly Growers Set for Big Year

By VERN LACEY

The $100,000-a-year business of decking Canada's halls with holly seems headed for its most festive Christmas.

This was the word along British Columbia's holly belt — source of the country's entire holly harvest — as growers sharpened their sprig shears to fill record orders from Eastern Canada.

At Solarium

One of the largest holly orchards in B.C. is located on the property of the Queen Alexandra Solarium on Arbutus Road.

It was planted about 50 years ago by Fred Pemberton, well-known Victoria realtor, botanist and gardener. Solarium foreman D. R. Philbrick, who supervises the holly crop, said the original trees are still producing and will yield about 16,000 pounds this year.

Some Eastern holly hawkers have increased orders up to 25 per cent over last year, says Gil Rumley, manager of the Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Association.

Running Out?

"About 85 per cent of our market will go to Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes."

The rising popularity of the traditional red-berried Christmas decoration may put growers in an almost unprecedented predicament, he says.

"I think we're going to run short of holly."

No Price Rise

His prediction — not shared by all growers — is unusual in an industry that normally clips only as much as required, and leaves the rest on the tree until next Christmas.

Even with a shortage, there is little chance of an increase in the holly price, he says.

"Independent growers outside his association won't raise their prices."

U.S. Market

Average holly price is about 50 cents a pound, lower for volume purchases.

Ronald Nutter, a large independent grower, holds his prediction to "at least an average year."

He cuts an average of 600 to 700 pounds of holly a day off his four-acre farm, big by holly colony standards. His holly will go to Boston and Cleveland, as well as Montreal and Toronto.

Expansion?

While holly belt growers — roughly 360 acres on southern Vancouver Island and the mainland Fraser Valley — worry about keeping Canada decorated, talk is circulating in expanding the Canadian market to Australia and New Zealand.

Charles Carter, provincial horticulturist, says the suggestion was made to him privately by an official of the federal trade and commerce department.

NOT PRODUCED

The view is that holly, traditional with Christmas for the English-speaking world, would sell there. Neither country produces holly itself.

"With the rapid transportation now available for delivery, it is definitely possible."

"But I don't know of anyone shipping this year."

Johnson Signs Proclamation

Oil Import Program To Continue Almost Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed Friday a proclamation continuing the oil import program in 1966 almost unchanged from its present form.

One amendment will permit import allocations for Petrochemical firms in the United States and Puerto Rico.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall announced the import program plan at a press conference, and Johnson later signed the proclamation at his ranch in Texas.

OBJECTIONS

The Independent Petroleum Association of America raised immediate objections.

In a statement, association president F. Alton Calvert Jr. said "the changes in the 1966 oil import program do nothing to strengthen the security of the United States as to its vital supplies of petroleum products."

In response to questions, Udall said the changes will not affect the status of Canada and Venezuela under the oil import program.

He cuts an average of 600 to

Ex-Officials Recalled To Handle Emergency

The department of education has called back a former deputy minister of education and a former superintendent of schools to deal with a temporary emergency in the teacher registration branch.

A provincial cabinet order-in-council Friday authorized the rehiring of Harold Campbell, former deputy, and Alexander Turnbull, former superintendent, as teacher certification and credential evaluation specialists.

FOR THREE MONTHS

The former employees were hired for a three-month period effective Dec. 1, 1965.

Soviets May Slash Prices

HAVANA (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to slash the prices it charges Cuba for manufactured goods if Cuba can show they are available elsewhere for less. This agreement, signed in Moscow early this year, was made legal here this week by publication in the official Gazette but details were kept out of the controlled press in Cuba and Russia.

Dr. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education, said "the department has an emergency problem of dealing with teacher certifications, and evaluation. It is a very temporary business," he said.

"We have fallen behind in this work and are trying with the help of knowledgeable people to clean this accumulation up.

It is a very temporary business," he said.

Nude Go-Go A 'Gone

Topless Show Ends as Old Law Bared

SELAH, Wash. (AP) — A last-minute legal move by Selah and Yakima county authorities succeeded Thursday night in blocking Yakima County's first topless go-go girl show.

The show was scheduled for a Selah tavern. The girl went on as scheduled, but all covered up—at least as much as any other go-go girl.

Just minutes before, a member of the band at the tavern announced county and city authorities had found a law to block the topless dance. The crowd booted the announcement.

Larry Cacciotti, co-owner of the tavern, said he was threatened with arrest but would "probably" take the matter to court.

Prosecutor Lincoln Shropshire said there wasn't any county or city ordinance preventing the performance but they applied a state lewdness statute to the show.

"There is some argument over whether this statute applies," Shropshire said.

Meanwhile, the Selah City Council has scheduled a meeting Monday night to pass an anti-topless ordinance. If passed it will go into effect two weeks later, Shropshire said.

Shropshire said he was not sure whether existing ordinances would ban a similar show in Yakima.

University Dropouts Total 89

VANCOUVER (CP) — Simon Fraser's "drop outs" since the new university opened Sept. 9 have totalled 89, about four percent of the student body. Registrar Duncan P. Robertson reports. The first term's registration totalled more than 2,500 students.

Appeal Considered In Police Firing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A hearing this week at which Magill, lawyer for Const. Ron Magill, was found guilty of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline in the force.

The charge was laid after Magill gave notice at a union meeting of a motion of non-confidence in Chief Constable Ralph Booth and Deputy Chief John Fisk.

The decision by the Vancouver Police Commission was reached after a two-day hearing.

Peace Prize to UNICEF

OSLO (AP)—The United Nations Children's Fund—UNICEF—received the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize Friday and the fund's executive director declared it was "a wonderful incentive to greater effort in the name of peace."

"Your have given us new strength," said the United States Henry R. Labouisse, accepting for UNICEF a gold medal and a cheque for 283,000 Swedish crowns ($34,440).

10TH ANNIVERSARY

The fund, which celebrates its 10th anniversary today, aids an estimated 750,000 children in 118 countries.

The Oslo ceremony was one of three honoring the 1965 Nobel winners.

Four of the prizes were awarded in a companion ceremony in Stockholm where Swedish King Gustav VI Adolf handed them out before an audience of 2,000 guests.

AT EMBASSY

Prof. Sintiro Tomonaga of Japan, who shared the physics prize with two Americans, received his award in Tokyo where he is confined because of a rib injury. He accepted at a special ceremony at the Swedish embassy.

Much attention in the Stockholm ceremony focused on Milk-hall Sholokhov, the Soviet author who won the literature prize for his novel, And Quiet Flows the Don.

DIDN'T BOW

A Communist, the author walked forward briskly to accept his prize. King Gustav then spoke briefly to him in English as Sholokhov, in the Cossack tradition of never bowing to a ruler, stood.

Now, 60, Sholokhov said recently he felt the award came "30 years too late."

The other awards, each worth $54,440, were presented at Stockholm to:

Prof. Julian Schwinger of Harvard University; Richard Feynman of the California Institute of Technology, sharing the physics prize with Tomonaga.

The awards were made on the 89th anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite who set up the peace prize to whoever "best promoted the fraternity of nations." It has been awarded to 32 persons and eight institutions since 1901. The award is made by the Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament and the other prizes are awarded by the Swedish Academy.

Wrong Man Approached

Crow or Beauty, Still No Sale!

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harvey Foster picked the wrong man when he attempted to sell the affection of a flirtatious girl friend.

Detective Harvey Brown of the city police department listened to the sales pitch, then identified himself and arrested Foster.

Foster, 19, received a six-month suspended sentence Thursday when he pleaded guilty in magistrate's court to a charge of attempting to obtain money by false pretences.

As it came out in court,

the on-the-street dialogue between Det. Brown and Foster went like this:

Foster: Are you looking for a girl?

Brown: I might be.

Foster: I've got one. I'm sure you would be interested in.

Brown: Where is she?

Foster: Up the street.

Brown: What does she look like?

Foster: Real nice.

Brown: You're sure she's not an old crow?

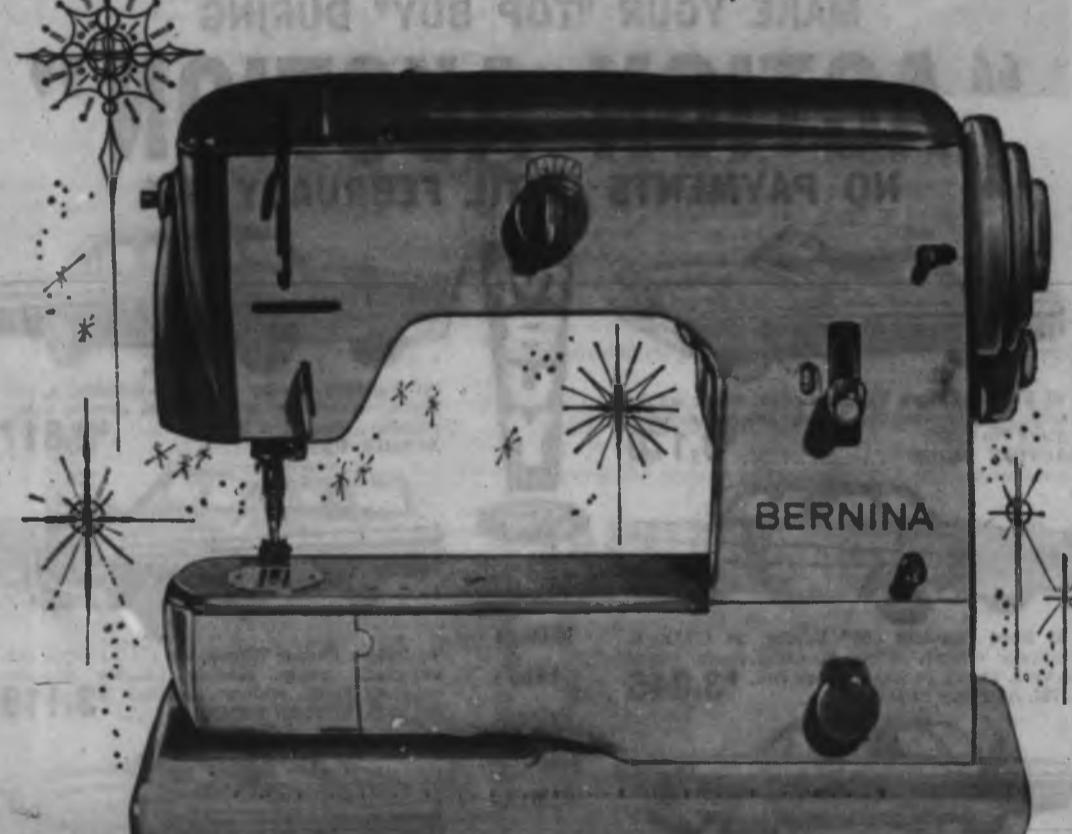

Foster: No, she's one of the better ones.

Brown arrested Foster after a price of $20 was mentioned.

Taxmen Dog Max Who Headed West

NEW YORK—State investigators have entered the case of Max Donovon, last seen headed west in a sports car accompanied by a girl who modelled brasiers.

Representatives of both the state income tax bureau and the state department of labor said they are very much interested in Max—particularly in the fact he was salaried by a Wall Street firm and paid social security.

Most interesting is that Max is a dog. No ordinary dog, but a "lovable Schmucker."

He has become a principal in the Supreme Court separation suit of Janet Owen de Lys against her husband, John, a real estate developer and broker.

The two state agencies sent observers to court after learning of Mrs. de Lys's testimony that Max was once on her husband's payroll, held a social security card and belonged to a book club. "This must be an educated dog," Justice Thomas A. Aurelio said.

PARIS—Refugee Russian ballerina Rudolfo Nureyev went to see his former companion in Leningrad's touring Kirov ballet company dance in this city—where he defected during a similar tour four years ago. He found they danced "well, so well" but he dismissed the idea of going backstage for a chat. Nureyev defected in 1961, in a dramatic escape at Orly airport, as two Soviet security men prepared to hustle him aboard a plane back to the U.S.S.R.

To Promote Centennial

Beaming Premier To Sell B.C. In California

By JACK FRY

Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett will head for sunny California during the New Year's holidays to promote the British Columbia's 1966 tourist industry and visit Disneyland.

He will draw attention to B.C.'s Centennial celebrations by attending the running of a special B.C. Handicap at Santa Anita racetrack Dec. 30 and by appearing in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day.

TO WATCH GAME

Also on New Year's Day, the premier will see the Michigan State and UCLA gridiron giants battle at the Rose Bowl football game in Pasadena.

And that's not all.

For the first time in the history of the Tournament of Roses parade there will be an entry from B.C., complete with scarlet-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Police on horseback.

Half the famous RCMP Musical Ride, an 18-member contingent, will accompany the

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

IT'S AN ILL WIND . . . Duncan Curling Club apparently got a bit short-changed a while back but it could be all to the good.

After accepting the chance to purchase the present Duncan curling rink for $45,000 the club found itself without premises for next season when owners sold the premises elsewhere for a reported $46,000. After meeting with the new owners and getting an indication that curling fees would be increased for next season, the club decided to try and build its own rink.

Plans call for construction of a five-sheeted complete with locker facilities and club and refreshment rooms at a total cost of $100,000. The goal is to raise a minimum of $15,000 from membership fees, which have been set at $200 for a single person and $300 for a family less membership already subscribed.

So far, a release from the Duncan club states, $17,000 has been pledged through the sale of 63 memberships. That leaves a fair way to go but the club will continue its membership drive until March and, if successful, will have a new curling club ready for next season.

It may take a concerted effort to put it over but it will be worth any effort. Members will enjoy their curling more in their own premises and will likely agree that new and more-modern facilities will be more than worth the difference in cost. And the difference won't be as big as it looks now when cost of renovations to the old rink are figured in.

THE PLAYDOWNS: Ten of the original starting field of 13 rinks have been eliminated at the Victoria Curling Club and the second representative will be known tonight when Ken Sturrock meets Maurice Tellier.

Sturrock reached the "B" final last night by making good on a free draw to count the winning point to edge Bud Taylor, 9-8. Taylor had a one-rock lead after 11 ends but a takeout miss on his last rock cost him the chance for the extra end he was trying to get.

Tellier made it over O. J. Powell's rink, skipped by Tony Gutoski, when he drew the four-foot through a port with his last rock to beat out a guarded rock in the eight-foot circle. Score was 8-7.

Winner of tonight's game, at 7, carries on to the south Island final with Don Moss, who skipped Pat Thomson, George Carlson and Don Matheson to victory in "A" event. Curling with Sturrock are Allan Paul, Ron Gardner and Marvin Hodges. Tellier is calling the shots for Lloyd Larson, Steve Shea and Gordon Boyd.

Another game also goes tonight at 7, this one in the women's final. Georgina Campbell, who reached the final Thursday night with a 144 rout of Dorothy Fukuyama, meets Flora Martin and must win to force a second game.

Up-island, only Gary Leibel of Qualicum Beach and Earl Ewart of Alberni Valley have won places in the north Island men's final.

Leibel made it when no one challenged him in his club while Ewart won one of two places at the AVCC club by winning the "B" event. John Hart and Bob Cummings meet in "B" final tomorrow to decide the other winner.

Nanaimo's double-knockout playoff between nine rinks is currently underway and will be over by tomorrow night. Three rinks are left out of the four which started at Campbell River and Comox Valley is not yet halfway through its four-rink double-round robin.

Eric Kakosch and Norm Manning are in the "A" final at Campbell River and the loser meets Ralph Boyd in the "B" final. Grant Macdonald and Gus Polson are 10-0 at Comox Valley, Dave Patterson 1-1 and Ole Carlson 2-0.

At Duncan, Glen Harper, Fred Duncan, Mike Smith and Keith Deneen are set to start their playoff.

ENDS TONIGHT: North Island ladies' final started late last evening at the Comox Valley Curling Club with five rinks playing a double-knockout competition to decide which will play the southern champion for the right to represent the Island in the provincial playdowns.

Nanaimo represented by two rinks, Alberni Valley, Comox Valley and Campbell River by one, Qualicum Beach and Ucluelet are not represented.

Mary Fuller, Audrey Thompson, Sylvia Koster and Bunny Anderson beat Agnes Thien and her rink in straight games to earn the right to represent Nanaimo's evening group but Mrs. Thompson, taking treatment for a bad back, will be unable to take part and will be replaced by Dot Lindsay with Mrs. Koster and Mrs. Anderson both moving up a notch in the lineup.

Jessie Whittam skipped her Mother, Irene Schroh, sister Donna Dunn and Lorraine Harder to victory over Helen Wilson in the best-of-three playoff involving the afternoon draft curlers.

Evelyn Stirzaker, Sybil Magnusson, Marg Muir and Marg Jamieson will represent the Alberni Valley Club; Myra Perriman, Doris Christianson, Edie Grant and Jackie Langdon have replaced Franke Sergeant as Campbell River standard-bearers and it will be Lili Grandage, Ev Hodgins, Fran Buttons and Meredith Klem from the host club.

Tight Scrap Looms In Key NFL Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore Colts, without injured quarterback Johnny Unitas, face Green Bay Packers at home Sunday in a National Football League showdown.

If the Colts win, they will lock up the NFL's Western Division title and earn a berth against Cleveland Browns, Eastern titlists, for the league championship Jan. 2. If the Packers win, the divisional race will go down to the wire through next week's final games.

The Baltimore Green Bay game will be televised Sunday at 11 a.m. on channels 2, 4, 7 and 12, followed by the Los Angeles-Cleveland game on 7 and 12 at 1 p.m. Today's Dallas-St. Louis game will be seen on 7 and 12 at 11 a.m.

Neither team is exactly at peak touchdown-scoring form. Unitas, who suffered a knee injury in Colts' 13-0 loss to Chicago Bears last Sunday, is in hospital, out for the season. His key spot in the Colts' offensive will be occupied by Gary Cuozzo.

The Packers' offensive, meanwhile, is spattering. They have lost three of their last six games and been held to a single touchdown in four of the six.

"I don't know what's wrong," coach Vince Lombardi said as the team went through a light drill in Baltimore Friday.

The Green Bay-Baltimore game figures to be a bitter defensive battle, of the kind usually decided by a field goal. Both teams have good kickers, Lou Michaels for Baltimore and Don Chandler for Green Bay.

Arnie, Jack Close In

Jay and Lionel Hobert took a Dick Sikes, Gay Brewer and one-stroke lead in the $125,000 PGA four-ball championship yesterday, but Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus shot the best round of the day to move within two strokes of the leaders going into today's final 18 holes.

With Jay getting four of his team's seven birdies, the Hoberts shot a 68 for a 54-hole total of 196, 20 under par. The teams of Bobby Nichols and Buster Cupit were tied for second at 197.

Nicklaus and Palmer put together a round of 65 with five birdies and an eagle on the par-five 12th. Nicklaus blasted out of a bunker and into the cup 25 feet away for one of the birdies.

Reginald Graves loaned Gladys Naylor $9,973 and received post-dated cheques totaling more than $1,350,000 in promised repayment. Magistrate J. A. Byers told in central magistrate's court Friday.

Mrs. Naylor, a housewife in her 50s, has pleaded not guilty to four counts of fraud totaling $15,358 and has elected to be tried by a judge without a jury.

RULES TUESDAY

Magistrate Byers will give his decision Tuesday on whether he will commit her for trial.

Mr. Graves, 2701 Dewdney, said Mrs. Naylor, whom he didn't know, asked him Aug. 4, 1964, to loan her $150.

In return she would pay him $250. Mr. Graves said Mrs. Naylor had been told by a third person to see him and that she gave no reason why she needed the money.

Mr. Graves said he continued to make payments to Mrs. Naylor until they totalled $9,973 in June of this year.

EXPECTING ESTATE

Mrs. Naylor, who lives at 914 Sioux, told him at one stage that she was expecting a large estate from Seattle which would total $999,000.

During this period Mr. Graves said he received many cheques from Mrs. Naylor which were to be cashed when the inheritance arrived.

Some of these cheques were made out for $400,000 (two, $200,000, $175,000, $45,000 and $30,000).

DIDN'T CASH THEM

"I didn't try to negotiate any of these cheques, because I didn't think the money would be there to cover them," Mr. Graves said.

Prosecutor Walter Anderson asked: "If you knew there was no inheritance, would you have loaned her the money?"

"No."

NEEDED LOAN

Jake Spelt, 870 Royal Oak, said he lent Mrs. Naylor $500 in June.

"She asked me if I could lend her the money which she needed to travel to Montana to sign papers for a large inheritance," Mr. Spelt said.

Mrs. Naylor promised to pay the money back in several days, he said.

NO LUCK

However, Mrs. Naylor returned and said the inheritance had not come through, Mr. Spelt said.

"Nothing surprised me by that time," answered Mr. Spelt.

In August, Mrs. Naylor gave him a cheque for $200,000.

MARKED NSF

Mr. Spelt said one cheque he received for $100 was returned by the bank marked insufficient funds and he did not present any of the others.

The cheques were to compensate for the delay in meeting the $500 loan, he said. He did not receive any money from Mrs. Naylor.

John Holmes lent Mrs. Naylor $3,000 beginning in 1962, he said.

NO SURPRISE

"Did it surprise you when you received that one ($100.00)?" Mr. Anderson asked.

"Nothing surprised me by that time," answered Mr. Spelt.

KEPT STALLING

Mrs. Finn said Mrs. Naylor promised to pay the money back in several days but kept stalling because the inheritance had not arrived.

PITTANCE BACK

"All we received was $138 in cash," Mrs. Pilote said.

Mrs. Doreen Finn, 396 Obed, said she loaned Mrs. Naylor $600 in May of this year. The money was for legal fees in regard to the inheritance, she said.

Author Killed

In Car Crash

STRATHROY, Ont. (CP)—A noted instructor in physical education who wrote three books on recreation, James Pullen, was killed Friday when his car left the highway and hit a tree near here. Mr. Pullen, 35, a St. Thomas restaurant owner, was a former director of physical education for the national entry program, a youth-training scheme sponsored by the federal department of labor. He was the author of A Book of Games for Volunteer Leaders, A Book of Crafts for Volunteer Leaders and How to Teach Square Dance Calling.

FLEET RANKS FOURTH

The Norwegian merchant fleet is the fourth largest in the world, with 5,401 vessels aggregating 14,477,112 gross tons.

"She said she needed the money to pay her lawyers and for trips to the U.S. to collect her inheritance," Mr. Holmes said.

He said he never received any securities for the loan but received cheques and promissory notes totalling $30,000.

TOOK HER WORD

"I took her word for it," Mr. Holmes said. "She said I would be repaid well but all I wanted was the money I loaned her."

He said he never presented any of the cheques at the bank.

"Mrs. Naylor was going to tell me when she had the money," he said. "But it was always next week, next week."

SOME PAID BACK

He said he received about $270 in repayment.

Mrs. Diane Pilote, 504 Selkirk, said she loaned Mrs. Naylor $1,000 Sept. 23.

Mrs. Naylor needed the money to get some rings she had pawned so she could pay lawyers hired in the inheritance proceedings, she said.

"She said she would pay us back in four days," Mrs. Pilote said. "The inheritance was to be $750,000."

WENT TO BANK

Mrs. Pilote said she and her husband borrowed the money from the bank. Mrs. Naylor wanted to give her $6,000 in repayment but Mrs. Pilote declined.

Mrs. Naylor gave her a postdated cheque for $1,050 and a promissory note for $6,000, that day.

On Oct. 6, Mrs. Pilote received a cheque for $10,000 and a note for $1,000.

PITTANCE BACK

"All we received was $138 in cash," Mrs. Pilote said.

Mrs. Doreen Finn, 396 Obed, said she loaned Mrs. Naylor $600 in May of this year. The money was for legal fees in regard to the inheritance, she said.

KEPT STALLING

Mrs. Finn said Mrs. Naylor promised to pay the money back in several days but kept stalling because the inheritance had not arrived.

"In May she said the inheritance was $750,000," Mrs. Finn said. "It finally got up to July, 1965, with a deposit of $10,000."

It was closed in September, he said, when there was a balance of $4.

"Six cheques were returned marked 'not sufficient funds' by

Gordon Jackson, an accountant at the branch, said Mrs. Finn.

There were three for $100,

one for $500, one for $1,000 and one for $25,000. The last one was made out to a supermarket

in Sidney, he said.

One witness testified the in-

Petra Revitalized

Tourists Follow In Footsteps Of Moses, Romans

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

PETRA, Jordan (AP) — Mark Antony once gave the place to Cleopatra.

Roman generals fought for it. According to tradition, Moses struck water from its rocks. A Greek army perished on its doorsteps. And, visitors trying to reach it only 40 years ago stood a good chance of being murdered.

Now Petra, a boom town in the time of Christ, is booming again—this time on the tourist trade.

Two-thousand-year-old waterways are being rebuilt. A hotel—half its rooms are caves—stands in the lost city. Jordanian desert police in a tent check every visitor and the only way in or out is on horseback.

Incense was the biggest money-maker in the Middle East in biblical times. The Roman and Greek empires burned colossal quantities of it for religious and civil ceremonies and it came from the sap of trees in South Arabia, trekked northward by camel caravan.

The Nabateans, a war-like confederation of Arab tribes, ruled the caravan routes and built Petra, their capital, by pirating the shipments of scents. Eventually the Nabateans merely charged tolls on passing caravans and settled down to found a civilization of their own.

The delicacy and beauty of Nabatean buildings reveal the heights their civilization reached—soaring temples cut deep into the red, yellow and grey clifffaides, a three-story Roman palace as finely-whittled as a wood carving, a hand-chiselled theatre seating 3,000 spectators, and stone writings in a script that led to the Arabic language.

"There is nothing else like it in the world," G. Lancaster Harding, one-time director of Jordan's antiquities department, wrote of Petra.

Tourists driving to Petra register at the tent police station, rent a horse and start the hour-long walk through the "Sik," a twisting gorge.

Suddenly the gorge gives one last twist and the rider gasps— even the guides who see it every day whistle quietly at the sight—at the glowing brilliance of an immense, pure pink temple.

Arabs call the building "the treasury." Its dome, lofting from the carved columns and porticos, is punched with bullet holes made by gunmen trying to shatter the stone and discover a hoard of gold. In fact, the Dome, and the rest of the structure, is solid rock.

Petra lies south of the Dead Sea in Wadi Musa—the "Valley of Moses"—where tradition has it that Moses struck water from a rock. After centuries of defeating its rivals and ruling the deserts, the Nabatean kingdom began paying tribute to Rome. That was when Antony gave the town to Cleopatra.

In 106 A.D., it became a Roman province and Roman temples, triumphal arches and roads were built in the red sandstone capital.

As the incense caravans were replaced by galley carrying the perfume up the Red Sea, the glory of Petra faded. For hundreds of years it was abandoned and unknown, with only strange tales of a lost city in the desert reaching the outside world.

In 1812 the tales reached an Anglo-Swiss explorer named Burckhardt, wandering through the Middle East. Burckhardt persuaded his Arab guides to show him the lost city.

He returned to Europe with the discovery of a new wonder of the world.

In Mexico City prices are up, particularly in the new, big hotels. Builders paying freightful interest on borrowed money is one reason.)

A nudge of $20 to $30 double is not unusual. However, there are plenty of good hotels in a better bracket. They run $8 to $12.

Taxis: still hard to get. In peak hours, forget the taximeter. Tell the man where you're going and what you'll pay. Make it half again or double if you really want a cab. Cruising cabs are watching for foreigners.

In the regular route—the made square out to Chapultepec Park which covers most of the area you want—the pescos. The one-peso car that picks up all it can hold costs for a peso each. (The cabbie drives with one hand out the window, one finger raised.)

It's the transportation of the capital. No language needed. Just say the street or place where you want to get off.

The peso runs 12.50 to the dollar. Convert peso prices to dollars quickly: Multiply by .08.

Winter forecast: Cold in the city. Topocat nights. Bickin' weather at the beaches.

So to the mail:

"What should we wear (women) in Hawaii at this time of year?"

This is very relaxed country. (I carry a dark suit with me. But most of the time bring it home unworn—and unpressed.) Sports clothes. Slacks, shorts, the Hawaiian Mother Hubbard maillot. Cocktail dresses at a couple of big hotels in the evening. No raincoats or topcoats. One sweater for evening.

Prices and selections are very good in Hawaii. I'd bring little and plan to buy a little in the islands. About $50 should get you everything you want for a two weeks vacation.

"What to wear (for women) in January in Las Vegas?"

This is another relaxed resort. You'll see everything from evening dress to cowboy pants. It's cold this time of year. A coat and sweater needed. I'd say a few cocktail dresses. Resort clothes for daytime. If you decide to go Western, there's plenty of shops. It's not inexpensive. A fairly high-priced town.

"My wife and I are going on a three-months cruise—P and O Orient Line, first class. Can you advise us on clothing?"

As I recall, I did not carry a dinner jacket on this ship—the Orsova. And didn't feel it was absolutely needed. (Though British ships are supposed to be dressy.) A dark suit for a man, cocktail dresses for the woman should be enough. Sports clothes for day. Sweaters for deck. Walking shoes for going ashore. Our ship's store didn't have much wearing apparel to supplement what we had. Better bring what you want with you.

"You've spoken of small pensions in Europe where you can get room and board. Can you make advance reservations?"

I doubt it. Travel agents and hotel representatives don't have them listed. So how do you know? And which one do you want? I'd have a firm reservation at a modest hotel (through a travel agent). Then go to the national tourist bureau in town when you arrive. They have these listings locally. Get a taxi to get a price by the hour. And go out and shop them. When you get what you want, move on.

following the Michelin Guide of France. But I haven't used them yet. The AAA recommendations are usually the best in that town. I've pulled a couple of good ones out of Duncan Hines.

You might try hitting the steak houses. No country compares with America on steaks. Kansas City, being the home of the famous steaks, try Stockyards restaurant or one in the downtown loop. In New York, Peter Luger's — across the Williams-

Christmas brings a feast of goodies for children — and some thing they shouldn't eat.

Holly and mistletoe berries, spun glass, tree ornaments and chemically-impregnated yule logs are some of them, warns the poison control centre of Royal Jubilee Hospital. Holly berries in quantity can sicken a child, and a large amount of mistletoe berries has been known to kill children, said a hospital spokesman Thursday.

The fluid in Christmas tree bubble lights is another poison. Tots have been known to eat ornaments and the spun glass "angel hair" that looks like cotton candy.

BEWARE CHEMICALS

Yule logs that burn with colored flame contain copper sulphate and other chemicals dangerous to humans, said the hospital spokesman. Best immediate remedy for such poisoning is to induce vomiting. This can be done with ipecac, a compound available without prescription at drug stores. Soapy water, salt water or mustard in water also cause vomiting.

The poison control centre can be reached by phoning EV-6-3131. Last year the centre gave advice to two mothers whose children ate holly berries.

Duncan IWARevision
Talks
Founder

DUNCAN — Wage revision talks between Forest Industrial Relations and the IWA coast negotiating committee broke down again Thursday morning but it is anticipated they will resume next week.

IWA committee member Weldon Jubenville, president of the IWA local 1-80, said Friday "John Billings (Forest Industrial Relations) stomped out of a meeting with IWA negotiators held at his office."

BIG STALL
Mr. Jubenville said at a Dec. 3 meeting Mr. Billings agreed to discuss boomers and sawmill categories "but once more he used stalling tactics Thursday telling us he needed more information."

The union leader said "Our negotiations are once again completely bogged down."

BREAKING POINT
"Industry stalling tactics are taxing IWA members' patience to the breaking point."

"Management-labor relations in the forest industry will further deteriorate if these stalling tactics continue." Mr. Billings was not available for comment.

Officer Attends Naval Talks

A scheduling conference with U.S. authorities in San Diego will be attended by Cmdr. G. C. McMorris, operations planning officer and staff officer (submarines) for the Pacific Coast.

Cmdr. McMorris will be the only Canadian naval representative at the conference. He leaves Monday and returns to Esquimalt Thursday.

The conference will be held at the U.S. Navy's North Island air station.

Scotchman's Bluff (centre) will be levelled and become centre of development. CPR Merchandising

The head of a well-known Victoria family, James McMillan Blackstock, died Friday in Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was 90.

Mr. Blackstock was born in Glasgow, Scotland. He came to Victoria in 1897 and joined Lord Baden-Powell's Boy Scout troops the following year.

He was discharged in 1904 and returned to Victoria where he was employed by the city for 40 years. Some of his service was with the police department. His son, John Blackstock, was chief of police for 13 years.

Chief Blackstock died in June of this year.

SURVIVORS

Mr. Blackstock is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Douglas F. Campbell of Victoria; three sons, William C., New Westminster, and James and Douglas of Victoria; five grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Bros. funeral home at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday.

The Rhine ran 16.4 feet above normal near the German border.

In Belgium it was much the same story of high rivers, flooding and damage. The River Meuse was 6.5 feet above normal at Liege and rising.

At the Belgian seaside resort of Knokke a dike burst and floodwaters swept the streets. A number of streets in Ostend also were under water.

Shock After Multiple Hurts
Caused Death of Woman, 76

Shock due to multiple injuries caused the death of Mrs. Annie Bradley, 76, last Sunday.

Mrs. Bradley suffered a broken left arm, left leg, and a broken pelvis, when she was struck by a car driven by Barry Neff, 23, of 551 View Royal, a coroner's jury learned Friday.

Also injured in the mishap was R. N. Grubb, 1866 St. Ann, not drive it.

who was crossing Pandora with Mrs. Bradley.

Mrs. Bradley was pronounced dead at Royal Jubilee Hospital 3½ hours after the collision.

Mechanics Robert Jones and William Bridgewood examined the car, and said it was

Two Blows Bring Jail Term

Two blows that Robert Bowden struck against Det. Doug Grant Sept. 11 cost him four months in jail.

Magistrate William Ostler passed sentence Friday in central magistrate's court.

Bowden, 1216 Oxford, had pleaded not guilty of assaulting a peace officer.

Magistrate Ostler said the offence was serious and that a fine would be inappropriate.

Break-Ins Net Near $600

Three Oak Bay homes were hit Thursday night by a thief who stole nearly $600.

The thief broke into the home of W. R. Gibson, 2990 Rutland, through an unlocked basement window and stole $510.95.

Earlier in the evening a thief broke the glass in the back door of the home of Dr. R. Matiko, 3140 Humber, and stole $75.

SAME PERSON?

The third house entered was owned by E. R. Whittington, 3275 Beach Drive. About $4 was stolen.

Oak Bay police believe the same person was responsible for the break-ins.

The district has had a rash of house break-ins over the last four weeks.

Strike Ends At Shell

WINNIPEG (CP) — Employees at the Shell Canada Ltd. refinery in neighboring St. Boniface, on strike since Oct. 14, have agreed to return to work Monday.

In a joint statement, Shell and Local 960, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC), announced Friday that a new two-year agreement which will provide a 35-cent-an-hour wage increase has been signed.

Workers will get 10 cents an hour retroactive to April 16, 10 cents effective immediately and 15 cents April 16, 1966.

Russia Won't Orbit Bombs

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The Soviet Union has officially informed the United States that it intends to abide by the United Nations resolution banning the orbiting of weapons of mass destruction. Marshall Wright, state department spokesman, told a press conference the information was conveyed here by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Exam Hush Cloaks Campuses

The hush of Christmas exam time has settled over the twin campuses of the University of Victoria. About 85 per cent of the university's 2,980 students sat down to their first examination papers Friday, beginning a tense week that ends with completion of the first term Dec. 18.

Most exams are being written in the spacious old gymnasium on the Gordon Head campus. Examinations are mandatory for first and second-year students.

In the third and fourth years it's at the option of the professor giving the course. Christmas holidays will last until Jan. 3, when the second term begins.

Landon Retires

Served 40 Years For 11 Ministers

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Looking back on 40 years of service with the provincial department of agriculture, Gordon L. Landon, director of the extension branch, noted Friday that he has worked for 11 different ministers.

Mr. Landon, who reached compulsory retirement age of 65 on Dec. 4, will officially retire Dec. 31.

He and his wife, Violet, were guests of honor at 80 friends and members of the department of agriculture gathered to say farewell Friday afternoon in the office of Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

Mr. Landon, born near Brockville, Ont., joined the department May 29, 1926, when he was appointed poultry inspector at the city of Nelson.

"It doesn't seem as if we have been with the department that long," he said. "I have been a happy 40 years, with some frustrations but we have enjoyed our association with former ministers on the wall."

Mr. Richter presented Mr. Landon with a gold wrist watch on behalf of the government and told the gathering that "while Mr. Landon was with us many, many years, we are not really going to lose him by retirement - we are merely giving him an opportunity to get on the outside and tell us what is wrong."

GREAT SERVICE
The minister mentioned "the great service and loyalty you have shown to us and the work on behalf of agriculture you have done in this province."

Mr. Landon said the gold watch, inscribed with the words "service to British Columbia 1926 to 1965, G. L. Landon," will replace the old wrist watch he's had for the past few years which is now in "a drawer over in the apartment" at 415 Michigan Street.

WALLET GIFT
Mrs. Richter presented Mrs. Landon with a bouquet of flowers and Allan Littler, chairman of the department's social committee, presented the departing member with a wallet on behalf of his fellow employees.

Plans for the future? Retirement in Vancouver, where the couple will live in an apartment near their children and relatives.

But no full-time employment. "I'm not looking for a full-time job, not after 40 years," said Mr. Landon.

Labor Bid Reviewed

Victoria Labor Council has been advised that the government will consider its request to have a labor spokesman placed on the University of Victoria's board of governors.

In October the council sought the appointment through university president Malcolm Taylor but was advised to see Education Minister Peterson.

Council secretary-treasurer A. W. Tason said Friday that he has been informed the cabinet will study the request before making three new appointments in the spring of 1966.

Tryste Hits the Stands Minus 'Hot' Sex Satire

Tryste, the University of Victoria's student literary magazine, appeared Friday minus a short story which the printer refused to touch.

The story, a satire on popular attitudes toward sex, will be published in the next edition by another printer, said Tryste managing editor Randy Burgoine on Friday.

In November, Charles Morris of Morris Printers Ltd. called the story "pornographic" and wouldn't set it in type.

The university student council passed a motion censuring Mr. Morris. Tryste editor-in-chief Bruce Bennett announced the magazine would be printed with the story or not at all.

The managing editor explained Friday that commitments to advertisers forced publication of an abbreviated Tryste.

The missing story was written by James Scott, a graduate. A foreword says it "attacks the overemphasis, superficiality and mechanization of human sexual relations . . ."

"It is not a classic. It won't change the world," adds the magazine.

Determined to print the deleted story, Randy Burgoine said Friday: "We'll be looking around for another publisher."

Unmoved, Charles Morris commented: "That's fine."

Machines Can Have My Job

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

There's been a lot of talk recently about automation. Some workers seem to be afraid of it.

But as the shop steward of Local 139 of the Housewives' Union (me) said recently:

"The sooner I'm automated out of the kitchen forever, the better."

Because, frankly, without automation work in the kitchen is a big fat bore, and the hours are lousy.

Who wants to beat eggs for half an hour with a wire whisk when a neat little machine will do it for you in half a minute?

Unlike workers in certain other fields, I do not claim to do a better job than my machines. My friend the dishwasher, for instance, is a calm, even-tempered, methodical worker and has yet to smash a dish in a fury.

What Leisure Time?

Nor am I worried about the problem of increased leisure time which seems to have the social scientists all in a lather.

They keep talking about doing something constructive in the time gained through automation. I'm against it myself. I refuse to rush off to a night school course on how to re-upholster a chair to give myself work to do while the dishes and the clothes get washed and dried.

What's so good about work, anyway? Most of it's pretty tedious. Better by far to sit and listen to the machines working. I might go so far as to read a book. In fact I find this a good thing. Not to improve my mind (that's what the social scientists would suggest) but just to enjoy myself.

Escapist novels are the best thing—like the one about that charming family who went to Portugal and had such an amazing time—because they had something even better than machines to do the dreary things around the house—Portuguese servants.

And that brings me to a point

On the other hand, I'm not insulted by their superiority. My ego is not crushed. It takes an awful lot of machines to replace me. Can that automatic dishwasher, for instance, lean over and turn off the oven while it's scraping egg off a dish? Nope. That takes another automatic whoozie.

Automated specialists, that's what they are, as opposed to the human general practitioner who is, in the long run, perceptibly smarter.

that does bother me. With all this automation in the home, why are we still never finished the housework?

Why is there always ironing in the basket, pots in the sink, dust under the chairs, and buttons off shirts?

Automation hasn't gone far enough, that's why.

There's still a lot of scope for the inventive mind. Now there's a constructive thing to do in one's hypothetical leisure time—write long lists of house-hold chores still to be automated, and send the suggestions off to the engineers to work on.

How about a child-chastiser that metes out a automated punishment for crimes like messing up a recently tidied room?

No need to incorporate the shrill scream which generally accompanies Mummy's brand of punishment. Just a nice well-balanced, crime-fitting punishment automatically dispensed. Such a time and temper saver!

Computers can do such strange and wonderful things now. Surely it's not too much to ask.

Officers Elected

Mrs. A. E. Raymond was elected president of Evening Branch, Women's Auxiliary, to St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, at the annual meeting.

Mrs. H. J. Jones, honorary president, was in the chair for the election. Other officers are Miss Whinfrey Smith, first vice-president; Mrs. A. Winer, second vice-president; Mrs. A. C. Murray, recording secretary; Miss Cora Merrett, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. George, treasurer; Mrs. H. K. Newell, dora; Mrs. F. Coverdale, social service; Mrs. P. L. McLaren, extra cents secretary; Miss Ethel Clark, living message; Mrs. F. W. Benton, education; Mrs. E. Andrews, prayer partner; Miss Ada Clark, united thank offering.

Miss H. Unwin extended the branch's appreciation to Mrs. L. H. Edwards for her work during her two-year term of office.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of white peau de soie, trimmed with lace. The same lace trimmed her tulip veil and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The ceremony took place in St. Mark's Anglican Church in the Mainland City with the Rev. A. Linfoot officiating.

New Plants for Old

By M. V. CHESNUT

At this time of the year we probably appreciate our houseplants more than at any other season; in fact, we may be too fond of them. In many homes I have visited, the treasured occupants of the sunny windowsills were scrawny, leggy things with no appealing features whatever. It is a very common mistake to hold on to individual specimens beyond the point where beauty fades, particularly when it is so easy to start new and vigorous youngsters from slips taken from the elderly plants.

Naturally, there are exceptions to this rule of frequent renewal, and I have seen fine plants of Sansevieria, cut-leaf Philodendron, Ficus and Aspidistra which were almost as old as their owners. However, with the great majority of houseplants, real vigor and compact growth can only be obtained by growing young plants in fresh soil.

Tradescantia, commonly known as Wandering Jew, is a case in point. This little vine with striped leaves can be so pretty and lovely, yet so often one sees lanky, stringy specimens with long stretches of bare stems and many dead or dying leaves, and this is all so unnecessary.

It is easy to grow compact, leafy Tradescantias, fairly bursting with health, if you keep your plants forever young by raising new plants from slips—you can do this at any time of the year—and giving the oldsters the old heave-ho.

A good soil mixture for rooting with growing slips of Wandering Jew is two parts purchased all-purpose potting soil plus one part damp peat moss, well mixed. Take a 4-inch or 4½-inch clay pot, put an inch of gravel in the bottom, and fill to within half an inch of the rim with this mixture, firming it well with the fingers.

It pays to be a bit fussy in selecting the shoots to be used as slips, taking only pieces with nicely colored leaves; always avoid plain green and poorly colored shoots. Your pot will hold seven slips, each about three inches long. Insert five cuttings around the edge of the pot and two in the center, and you're back in business.

The larger-leaved ivies are best rooted in a mixture of three parts peat moss to one part vermiculite, kept just barely moist, never soggy wet. Prepare the cuttings in the same way; that is, two leaves and a bit of stem, but in this case moisten the cut end, dip in a hormone rooting powder and shake off any excess before inserting. In this case, too, it pays to seal the whole potful of cuttings in a plastic bag until well rooted, as indicated by new growth commencing. Then transplant them into sandy loam soil, four rooted plantlets to a 6-inch clay pot, potting rather loosely.

ARTHUR HOPPE on Revolt That Failed

The Ratt of Phynkia

Herewith is another unpublished chapter in that unpublished textbook, A History of the World, 1950 to 1959. This chapter is entitled The Ratt of Phynkia.

The Johnson Doctrine, proclaimed in the 1960s, banned the staging of any unauthorized revolutions in any hemisphere. And by the early 1970s, American troops were engaged in anti-guerrilla warfare in 43 nations on six continents.

It was at this critical point that trouble broke out in Phynkia, a small oasis 420 miles southeast of Khartoum as the camel caravans.

Phynkia (population 37) was governed by a hereditary ruler or "Ratt," who was invariably corrupt, despotic, sadistic, grumpy and anti-Communist. He thus qualified for American aid and the title, "A Leader of the Free World."

In the spring of 1973, the current Ratt got in a fight with his brother-in-law over whose turn it was to use the Rolls Royce. The Ratt appealed for American troops to preserve his "bastion of democracy" and a CIA agent was dispatched to investigate.

The agent quickly determined that the brother-in-law had neither signed a loyalty oath nor even made a preliminary application to Washington for permission to revolt. Moreover, his report said, the populace supported their ruler, as evidenced by their daily custom of lining up in front of the palace and chanting, "Ratt, Phynkia . . . Ratt, Phynkia . . ."

Back in Washington, the president went on network television to announce that "as Phynkia goes, so goes whatever else is around wherever it is." And he ordered "all available military aid" sent to the Ratt.

The last troops remaining on American soil were dispatched and it was a tearful scene when his mother bid him farewell. On landing in Phynkia, the last troop, whose name was Corporal Horner T. Pettibone, handed out chewing gum to the kids and called for "close air support."

For this crucial mission, the Strategic Air Command decided to bomb in "every uncommitted aircraft." This turned out to be a blimp with a mopey pilot who, through "a navigation error," dropped his bombs smack on Phynkia itself, thus blowing the Ratt, his brother-in-law and all 35 other Phynkians to smithereens.

The president went on television to announce proudly that American military might had once again saved a nation from unauthorized revolution. "Let this be an example to our allies," he said, "that they can count on us."

At that moment, unfortunately, 16 Mexicans crossed the Rio Grande and, finding no opposition, took California. New York, which had been without electricity, newspapers or running water for three years, surrendered to two troops of Boy Scouts on tour from Luxembourg. Washington lay defenseless and was quite miffed to discover no one wanted it.

Weeks of turmoil followed. Finally, "as a gesture of friendship," Costa Rica dispatched a regiment of Marines to "prevent an unauthorized revolution."

The Costa Rican colonel went on network television to promise the American people that "free elections will be held as soon as conditions warrant."

They never did.

Jolly Noel. With only a few shopping days until Christmas, an invited lady in a nearby town bought a big root-to-toe plait. Not to put under the tree. She let her ever-loving Johnny have it—a couple of inches either way and it would have been "X marks the spot."

Fortunately for Johnny, he was taking evasive action and going away. While he won't sit down to carve the turkey, he'll be OK. And all's well that ends well.

Her reason? "I loved him," she told police. "I gave him the best years of my life."

I put little stock in female reasons. There's ALWAYS a reason. And it ALWAYS involves she loved him but—.

What used to interest me, when I was viewing The Late Late Show for the dailies, was the small arms accuracy of these chicks.

"You take a Jody who weighs 100 pounds soaking wet and is not wearing the glasses she needs when she drives," a detective told me. "She wouldn't know which end of the pistol to point if it didn't have a handle."

"She cuts down with her eyes closed. Bam! She nabs her dearly beloved amputee in the ticker. Like she had an Expert Pistol medal. And him a moving target ducking behind the couch."

At the time, the inspector and I were looking over the late

Heaven knows it's a modern hazard.

I have a little file myself. Do you think dark streets are dangerous? Well, in Great Britain, 40 per cent of the women who came to violent ends were done in by their bubbles in a cosy cottage.

But husbands are most apt to use their wives' kitchen equipment—like the ice pick. Or a handy kitchen chair.

Only to remind you there are few shopping days left before Christmas. If you do buy a gun, don't leave it around where an amateur can get hold of it. They seldom miss.

This is her third try since divorcing R. J. Wagner. Men she almost but didn't quite marry: Warren Beatty, Arthur Loew Jr., and now Ladislav.

Candice Bergen, Edgar's blonde chick, no longer wants to be known as Candy, says she will never return to modelling. "Too impersonal," she states. Actually she doesn't have to model, what with her hit in The Group and now starring in The Sand Pebbles with the most attractive star in films, Steve McQueen.

Future of World Hinges on China?

TOKYO (AP) — Britain's disarmament minister predicted Friday that China will be "the most significant country in the world" in 15 or 20 years.

"One thing is absolutely certain," Lord Chalfont told the Foreign Correspondents' Club of Japan. "Between 1970 and 1980, Asia and Africa will be the centre of development of world power, moving away from Europe and the West."

"Whatever things may look like in 20 years, one of the most important factors is going to be the direction of foreign policy China is going to take."

First All-Canada Financial Talks

Spending Outstripping Revenues?

By STEWART MACLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—A five-year project apparently has shown that government spending in Canada is in danger of outstripping available revenues.

A terse communiqué issued after a meeting of federal-provincial finance ministers said the ministers "recognized that priorities will have to be carefully considered by all governments in respect of expenditures on major programs that will compete for available funds."

This followed study of reports by the federal, provincial and municipal governments on probable level of spending between 1967 and 1972.

NEW BASIS

Acting Finance Minister

Sharp, asked later if this section of the communiqué implied a higher outlay than income, he said "the tendency for expenditures to rise continues."

The ministers met as members of the federal-provincial tax structure committee, which is preparing a new basis for the allocation of taxes after existing agreements expire in 1967.

MEETING WAS CLOSED

They met behind closed doors and little was said about what happened inside. All the projections were confidential. Some reports were said to be in code.

Friday's meeting, to be followed next year by sessions dealing specifically with the allocation of monies, was chiefly concerned with the general level of revenues and expenditures. There were also several specific issues raised by provincial premiers.

Nielsen Wants Sauve Probe

OTTAWA (UPI)—Yukon Tory MP Erik Nielsen Friday demanded the government launch an immediate public inquiry into alleged election irregularities in Forestry Minister Sauve's Magdalen Islands riding.

"If what has appeared in print is true," the Conservative scandal sleuth said, "then he cannot carry on. It didn't take the government long to appoint an inquiry into election irregularities concerning the NDP in B.C."

The government should have acted by now. It seems that everything they do has to be forced upon them."

LOST BY 502

The Conservatives, who lost Magdalen Islands by 362 votes, are alleging that a number of individuals were demoted or fired from their jobs because they had voted Conservative.

Nielsen ticked off other government shortcomings he or another Conservative will trot out when the session begins.

Nielsen said Justice Minister Lucien Cardin in deciding not to take court action in the recent Soviet spy case, "committed the same mistake that former Justice Minister Guy Favreau did in the Dorion matter."

Wheat Deal Too Big?

SASKATOON (CP)—Alvin Hamilton, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Qu'Appelle, said Friday Canada this year turned down a five-year wheat agreement with China because this country was unable to meet the demand.

The former agriculture minister criticized the Liberal government for failing to anticipate the demand and failing to meet it.

"The Chinese wanted 660,000 bushels over a five-year period but we could not give it to them because we didn't have it in supply."

Colonist 500 Fund

Christmas Less Dreary For Dedicated Mother

A bright-eyed girl of 20 was happily wed in Victoria 10 years ago.

Her eyes are less bright after a decade of poverty, illness and the struggle to raise five children.

Her husband turned out to be no good. He developed a "bad leg" that excused his quitting a job and refusing new ones. He settled into an existence of drinking, watching TV and women.

He has eased off romancing and alcohol lately, but it has been five years since he held a job.

At Christmas for the past four years the family has received money from the Colonist 500 Fund. It has been known in the Family and Children's Service since shortly after the marriage in 1955.

"She is a good mother, a warm and friendly person," says a case worker. "And on top of everything else, she had TB a few years ago."

The family of seven receive $225 a month in social assistance, $65 of which goes to rent their decaying five-room house—the best accommodation they've had yet. All the rest is spent on feeding and almost-adequately clothing the family.

Two girls, one 10, one 8, do well in school. The boys are aged 4, 2 and 1. At the suggestion of the service, the woman's doctor has instructed her in birth control methods.

They will be on the 500 Fund roll again this Christmas. So will 450 other families in equally dire circumstances.

You can help the fund bring them a little happiness at Christmas.

Nude Go-Go A 'Gone

Topless Show Ends as Old Law Bared

SELAH, Wash. (AP) — A last-minute legal move by Selah and Yakima county authorities succeeded Thursday night in blocking Yakima County's first topless go-go girl show.

The show was scheduled for a Selah tavern. The girl went as scheduled, but all covered up, at least as much as any other go-go girl.

Just minutes before a member of the band at the tavern announced county and city authorities had found a law to block the topless dance. The crowd booted the announcement.

Larry Cacciotti, co-owner of the tavern, said he was threatened with arrest but would "probably" take the matter to court.

Prosecutor Lincoln Shropshire said there wasn't any county or city ordinance preventing the performance, but they applied a state lewdness statute to the show.

There is some argument over whether this statute applies," Shropshire said.

Meanwhile, the Selah City Council has scheduled a meeting Monday night to pass an anti-topless ordinance. If passed it will go into effect two weeks later. Shropshire said.

Shropshire said he was not sure whether existing ordinances would ban a similar show in Yakima.

University Dropouts Total 89

VANCOUVER (CP) — Simon Fraser's "drop outs" since the new university opened Sept. 8 have totalled 89, about four per cent of the student body. Registrar Duncan P. Robertson reports. The first term's registration totalled more than 2,500 students.

Appeal Considered In Police Firing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lawyer for Const. Ron Magill, president of the Vancouver policemen's union who was dismissed from the force Thursday, says a decision on whether to appeal the ruling has not yet been made.

Magill, head of the union since 1959, has 30 days in which to appeal his dismissal to a judge of the B.C. Supreme Court.

The decision by the Vancouver Police Commission was reached after a two-day hearing.

Poll Today

Lake Cowichan Voters Will Choose Chairman

LAKE COWICHAN—Residents will vote at the village municipal office today, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., to elect a chairman of the village commission, between incumbent Mrs. Mildred Child and Nelson La Forge.

The remaining year of Mr. La Forge's term as commissioner will be contested by Walter Tipton and Alwyn Philip Trace.

Rudolph All and Hubert Cameron Haliday have been returned by acclamation for a further two years on the council.

For school trustee Bert Croll Brown and Frederick Osero contest a one-year term. Trustee Mrs. Catherine Sharp was re-elected by acclamation.

Retail Class Starts

NANAIMO — Adult education officials and the Chamber of Commerce have combined forces to co-sponsor business management courses.

Retailing has been chosen as the course, to start Jan. 11, in the senior high school.

Later in the year on March 11, second course for both employer and employee is planned—Retail Selling.

Lecturer is William McKay, a second member of the University of Alberta extension department.

Mr. McKay has conducted similar classes with industry and recently attended a workshop sponsored by the department of labor.

The retailing course is designed on a case study basis, giving each class member an opportunity to participate.

New Tree Set Up For Yule

PARKSVILLE—Helping local residents and visitors to get into the Yuletide spirit is a gaily decorated Christmas tree beside the tourist bureau.

The large tree was decorated by Parksville Volunteer Fire Department in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce. It is a growing tree with plenty of branches making it ideal for the purpose.

NDP Group Meets Tonight

PARKSVILLE—Members of the New Democratic Party provincial constituency association in the Alberni Valley will hold annual election of officers this weekend.

Dinner and election of officers will be held in the Sonoma Legion building in Alberni tonight.

Legion Election

COBBLE HILL—Legion branch voted in a new slate of officers for 1968 at the annual general meeting.

President is Sir Allan MacKenzie; first vice-president Allen Jeffries; second vice-president Rev. P. Gambell Harris; secretary Alton Wess; treasurer R. S. Swan.

Courtenay

Trustees Act on Travel

COURTENAY — Talks between school trustees and parents of children attending Hornby Island school have led to a plan for daily transportation of senior pupils.

Some months ago Hornby parents asked for dormitory accommodation in Courtenay or a superior school on the island. The latter suggestion was not looked upon with favor by superintendent C. E. Ritchie and the idea of dormitory accommodation looked to be too costly for the number of pupils involved.

The board agreed to prepare a list of suitable homes where students might board, or as an alternative suggested students taking correspondence courses could work at the school with the help of the teacher would be available.

The matter was presented again and a meeting with Hornby residents arranged.

The board has agreed to call tenders for daily transportation of Grade 8 to 10 Hornby students direct to Cumberland junior high school.

This would mean a student increase of 10. There is also a possibility that Grade 6 and 7 students will be transported daily from Hornby to Duncan Island. The result would leave Grades 1 to 5 at Hornby with one teacher in charge.

Another situation which has caused concern to the board with delegations of parents arriving at meetings, is at the Union Bay school.

Some months ago a delegation of parents complained the teacher-pupil ratio was too high and were informed the Union Bay school was not entitled to a larger staff. The parents asked for an investigation into the possibility of changing boundaries and bringing some Union Bay children to Union Bay, thus increasing the student population and making necessary the hiring of an extra teacher. The possibility of closing Fanny Bay school was also expressed.

The board looked into the matter and informed the parents the matter should remain as it was at least for the remainder of this year.

A further request for action coming from the parents, inadtuated a survey. The board learned this week that of parents of children concerned now at tending Fanny Bay, 80 per cent were opposed to sending their children to Union Bay.

Education For Adults

COURTENAY — The board of school trustees were told that they had every right to feel proud of their adult education program recently.

Director of adult education Harry Harris reported a total enrollment of 904 in 49 classes.

This registration is exceeded on Vancouver Island only in Victoria, Nanaimo and纳罗威 by Alberni Valley.

Also at this meeting the board approved 22 additional courses to be started in the third week of January.

Howards Find New Home

PORT ALBERNI — This time the Howards really have a house.

Ambrose Howard, his wife and 10 children came from Nootka six weeks ago to make a home where work was at least a possibility.

The valley was stirred by the plight of the Indian carver and his family, who had nothing but a bed and a mattress to start out with in their new home. Mr. Howard, a one-time TB victim, secured a job on the Winter Works program, and a small apartment housed the entire family at first.

Some time ago, it appeared a house had been found for the large family, but the deal fell through.

At last a house has been found, and the family hopes to move in before Christmas.

Mrs. Bill Patenaude, speaking for the Howard family, said "they have been grateful for all the help offered. When they first came, much furniture was offered which we could not accept for them, there was nowhere to put it."

"I am trying to contact all those who offered furniture to say a house has now been found, and the items offered will be most gratefully received."

Turkey Shoot Ready

PARKSVILLE — A pre-Christmas shoot for turkey, ham and merchandise is being held by Parksville Fish and Game Association Sunday at the Craig Road rifle range.

The shoot will commence at 10 a.m. and there will be matches for hunting rifles, 22 rifles and shotguns. All ranges 25 yards to 200 yards, skill matches and lucky targets available.

Attendance prizes will also be awarded.

Proceeds from this event will go towards the Junior Firearms Instruction program and the Search and Rescue division of the Fish and Game Club.

Recreation Land Area Suggested

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN — Council at its next meeting will be presented with a suggestion from the recreation commission to buy 12 acres of land on Sherman Road for another major recreational centre in the southern part of the municipality close to Duncan.

The commission supported Reeve Donald Morton, who recommended the purchase of the land.

Revision Talks Founder

DUNCAN — Wage revision talks between Forest Industrial Relations and the IWA coast negotiating committee broke down again Thursday morning, but it is anticipated they will resume next week.

IWA committee member Weldon Jubenville, president of the IWA local 1-30, said Friday "John Billings (Forest Industrial Relations) stomped out of a meeting with IWA negotiators held at his office."

Mr. Jubenville said at a Dec. 5 meeting Mr. Billings agreed to discuss boommen and sawmill categories "but once more he used stalling tactics Thursday telling us he needed more information."

The union leader said "Our negotiations are once again completely bogged down."

"Industry stalling tactics are faxing IWA members' patience to the breaking point."

"Management-labour relations in the forest industry will further deteriorate if these stalling tactics continue." Mr. Billings was not available for comment.

Nanaimo Shopping Mall To Cover 11 City Acres

By PETER TAYLOR

NANAIMO—Canadian Pacific Railway Friday announced three separate developments in Nanaimo, Calgary and Edmonton.

Nanaimo will get the long-expected $5,000,000 shopping mall. Edmonton a fully-service industrial park and Calgary a 50-storey office with restaurant tower.

The mall will be Vancouver Island's first enclosed shopping centre, fully air-conditioned.

There will be 40 stores in the 11-acre centre flanked at either end by huge Simpsons-Sears and Safeway stores.

BLUFF RAZED

Fred Joplin, CPR development engineer from Vancouver, said he believed Simpsons-Sears would expand into all or most of the present Safeway Store, and Scotchman's Bluff would be demolished to accommodate the new Safeway.

He would not disclose any of the other tenants, except to say most of the major vacancies have been taken, and they included a bank and a bakery.

RETAIL AREA

The actual building area will be 110,000 square feet, or just one-third of the present downtown retail area.

Parking will be provided for 800 cars, and one of the main entrances will be through the eastern section of Terminal Avenue.

This part of the avenue past the Italian fountain toward the CP ferry will be closed.

TRAFFIC EASED

Front Street will be extended around the centre to link up with Esplanade Street. This will relieve some of the traffic congestion at the junction of Terminal and Nicoll.

Nanaimo Truck and Equipment Repairs will close down at its present location and the building will be torn down. The same treatment will be given to the CPR Merchandising garage.

CPR GARAGE

The bus terminal will be left standing, and the CPR garages will be moved temporarily into this building.

Dominion Construction is the designer and builder, and E. D. Sutcliffe, general manager, said demolition of Scotchman's Bluff will start in January and rock obtained from this work will be used to fill part of the shoreline for the new road surrounding the complex.

OTHER JOBS

The new Safeway store will be built first and the whole project is slated for completion by October, 1966.

When completed the centre will employ 250 people.

Mr. Sutcliffe pointed to the trend toward revitalization of downtown areas.

He said in Victoria his company built the Town and Coun-

Dr. Larkin:

Soap Kills Coho Salmon

NANAIMO — Detergent expelled into fresh water is deadly to salmon, according to Biological Station Director Dr. Peter Larkin.

He told Fish and Game club members Friday, "pollution is one of the most insidious enemies of which salmon can suffer."

He said it has been known for some time that detergent in water can kill fish, and the reason for death has now been established.

The detergent destroys the fatty lateral line which runs along the side of the fish.

The line aids the fish in feeling the changing current pressures.

He said "pollution is cause for concern because much of the B.C. catch is in fresh water, or of fish that live close to the shore."

Dr. Larkin said in his opinion not too many Coho are being taken by sports fishermen.

He said there are enough adult Coho spawning in streams to make available all the fish that are needed.

Dr. Larkin said the best way to ensure a good Coho population is by control of the flow of streams.

The second referendum for $300,000 is a test piece. If it passes the board is taking this as approval for continuation and expansion of its kindergarten program.

Dr. Larkin said B.C. and

Alaska were about the last places left for exploitation.

He said "we are now getting a taste of the fishing situation that has been known in the North Sea and off the Grand Banks for some years."

COURENAY — A plea of guilty to causing willful damage was filed against William Wyatt to jail for 3 months; for supplying liquor to a minor, he received a 30-day concurrent sentence.

In sentencing the man, Magistrate John Ryland remarked: "We are suffering now in this district from a wave of vandalism and you seem to be subscribing to it."

The magistrate referred to the acts as a "horrible symptom of the times."

LOCAL MOTEL

Wyatt caused $74.50 damage to a local motel unit.

R.C.M.P. said Friday they had apprehended two juveniles who will appear in court Monday to face charges of willful damage. They are charged with the burning of a box car, fire damage at Courtenay-Chrysler and North Island Used Car Lots, and breaking into Bryan's Sport Shop.

It was Dr. Bonham of the central health unit who got medical research instituted through UBC.

"If Mr. Squire or anyone else can tell us where to find this technical help we'd be delighted," Mayor Hammer said.

"When we approached the B.C. Research Council we were told clearly that they were already working on behalf of the forest industry on this problem, and could not help us."

"It is astounding that the mayor calls on the provincial government to do this unpleasant job."

Claiming Port Alberni is now more isolated than ever before, Mr. Connell went on:

"People in Port Alberni are too intelligent to believe that the pulp and paper mill might either close down or move outside the city limits. This mill is one of the three largest in Canada and the shareholders would never consent to such a costly move."

Mr. Connell chastised civic authorities for not having the "courage and leadership" to do something about pollution.

Is Spending Outstripping Revenues?

Nielsen Wants Sauve Probe

OTTAWA (UPI)—Yukon Tory MP Erik Nielsen Friday demanded the government launch an immediate public inquiry into alleged election irregularities in Forestry Minister R. Sauve's Magdalen Islands riding.

"If what has appeared in print is true," the Conservative scandal sleuth said, "then he cannot carry on. It didn't take the government long to appoint an inquiry into election irregularities concerning the NDP in B.C."

"The government should have acted by now. It seems that everything they do has to be forced on them."

LOST BY 302

The Conservatives, who lost Magdalen Islands by 302 votes, are alleging that a number of individuals were demoted or fired from their jobs because they had voted Conservative; candidate Sauve personally intervened in an attempt to have two known Conservatives kept in jail election day, and increased welfare cheques were handed out to two Liberal supporters.

Nielsen has become the government's nemesis ever since he triggered the Dorian Inquiry over a year ago with revelations in the House about bribery and influence peddling in high government circles.

The 54-year-old Whitehorse resident who files his own plans was listening to Christmas carols on his radio when a reporter walked in.

MORE SCANDALS

"There are many more scandals floating about," he said. "It should prove to be a most interesting session."

Nielsen ticked off other government shortcomings he or another Conservative will trot out when the session begins.

Nielsen said Justice Minister Lucien Cardin in deciding not to take court action in the recent Soviet spy case, "committed the same mistake that former Justice Minister Guy Favreau did in the Dorian matter."

By STEWART MACLEOD
OTTAWA (CP)—A five-year project apparently has shown that government spending in Canada is in danger of outstripping available revenues.

A terse communiqué issued after a meeting of federal-provincial finance ministers said the ministers "recognized that priorities will have to be carefully considered by all governments in respect of expenditures on major programs that will compete for available funds."

This followed study of reports by the federal, provincial and municipal governments on probable level of spending between 1967 and 1972.

NEW BASIS

Acting Finance Minister Sharp, asked later if this section of the communiqué implied a higher outlay than income, he said "the tendency for expenditures to rise continues."

The ministers met as members of the federal-provincial tax structure committee, which is preparing a new basis for the allocation of taxes after existing agreements expire in 1967.

MEETING WAS CLOSED

They met behind closed doors and little was said about what happened inside. All the projections were confidential. Some reports were said to be in code.

Friday's meeting, to be followed next year by sessions dealing specifically with the allocation of monies, was chiefly concerned with the general level of revenues and expenditures. There were also several specific issues raised by provincial premiers.

Super Bomber Receives LBJ Approval

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson gave the go-ahead Friday for a new high-speed bomber to cost an estimated $1,750,000,000 by the time 210 of them are in operation by 1971.

The ministers met as members of the federal-provincial tax structure committee, which is preparing a new basis for the allocation of taxes after existing agreements expire in 1967.

To be known as the FB-111, it will be a modification of the F-111, the controversial fighter once called the TFX.

TOLD PRESS MEET

The U.S. defense department's civilian and military chiefs conferred with Johnson for more than three hours at his ranch near Johnson City. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara later told a press conference here about plans for the new bomber.

McNamara said the FB-111 will fly twice as fast as the latest model of the B-52, have equal range and far greater capacity to penetrate enemy territory. The latest B-52 has a speed of about 650 miles an hour and 9,000-mile range.

He told of plans for the new bombers to be in operation in 1968 with all to be ready by 1971.

McNAMARA

He told of plans for the new bombers to be in operation in 1968 with all to be ready by 1971.

McNamara said the FB-111 would be capable of both strategic and tactical missions and equipped to carry either nuclear or conventional bombs. He said its load capacity at 50 high-explosive bombs weighing 750 pounds each.

McNamara said the U.S. bomber force now is four times that of the Soviet Union and that he foresees no material change in this ratio of strategic to tactical aircraft.

Four of the five victims died in bed without a struggle. Police
